ISSUE : 4

APRIL 2025

VOLUME : 1

Rev. Fr. Dr. J. E. Arulraj

OUR FOUNDER & CHAIRMAN – DMI Group of Institutions

Dear Colleagues,

I am pleased to note the vibrant pace of events and initiatives we witnessed in April. The increase in activities—from the signing of MoUs and the establishment of new laboratories to the hosting of hackathons and meaningful social outreach—is a clear sign that we are moving in the right direction.

As we continue to grow, I urge everyone to stay aligned with our core vision: preparing our students for the real world through skill-based training and focused internship opportunities. Ensuring that our students are job-ready must remain a top priority across all departments.

We are entering an exciting phase of expansion. We have received approval to establish a new law college, and several new programmes and schools are being launched. Notably, we are stepping into the aviation sector, which opens up a whole new horizon for our group.

Our new institute—Joseph Institute of Business Administration (JIBA)—is launching specialized programs in Civil and Construction Management as well as Hospital and Healthcare Management, further strengthening our offerings in emerging and in-demand fields.

With the admission season underway, I know all of you are hard at work. I encourage you to involve every faculty and staff member in the admission process. We are anticipating a significant rise—around 15 to 20%—in student enrollments this year, and it will take a collective effort to manage this growth effectively.

Let's continue working together with commitment and clarity of purpose.

Foot disorders, particularly ulcers, affect a significant portion of the diabetic population and represent a major global health risk. Better preventive measures and treatments are desperately needed since, if left untreated, these ulcers can have significant consequences, possibly including amputations. More alternatives for precise analysis and diagnosis are available because of recent advances in deep learning. Diabetes-related foot ulcers (DFUs) have drawn attention because of problems with diagnosis and treatment. One type of deep learning models that has shown exceptional performance in DFU classification, detection, and segmentation tasks is convolutional neural networks (CNNs). However, there is a direct correlation between the effectiveness of the datasets used for training and validation and their quality and accessibility. Publicly accessible datasets have played a major role in advancing research on contaminated image analysis by facilitating data augmentation, fair model
